

Sub May Have Escaped Argentine Gulf

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas outfoxed southern members Monday to bring before the Senate a House-passed bill on which to hang civil rights amendments.

With only a handful of his colleagues in attendance at the time, Johnson got unanimous consent to call up a minor bill involving a Missouri school district.

The maneuver went unchallenged by Sen. B. Everett Jordan (D-NC) who had been posted as a sentinel by Southern opponents to rally them to fight against bringing up the civil rights measure.

Fulfills Promise

Johnson, who appears to be staking his chances for the Democratic presidential nomination on his promise to get civil rights legislation passed, thus carried out a commitment he made last year to bring the issue before the Senate in mid-February.

Using his power as majority leader, Johnson stepped into the political limelight as the man who opened the way for Senate action while other Democratic presidential hopefuls were only clamoring for it.

Johnson's move involved a calculated political risk that he could attract northern support and still hang on somehow to the southern delegates who'll be at the National Democratic Convention in July.

Johnson's swift strike left the southerners without the chance to talk at length on whether the Senate should consider picking an unrelated bill to carry civil rights legislation. But they had plenty of other opportunities for talk coming up.

Annals By Russell

When Johnson announced quietly that the Missouri school measure would be the civil rights vehicle, the storm broke.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) denounced the maneuver as opening the way "for an outpouring of every conceivable type of legislation that may be labeled civil rights."

He was surprised and chagrined, the Georgia senator said, that Johnson had chosen, for his civil rights maneuver, a minor bill passed by the House last Aug. 31 and approved by Russell's Senate Armed Services Committee.

The bill would excuse the citizens of Stella, Mo., from paying $6,200 yearly rental on quarters in Fort Crowder, Mo., to replace their burned-out country school building.

Seeks Postponement

Russell announced he would file a motion to postpone action on the school bill. But even though he was supported by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), an advocate of strong civil rights legislation, the Georgian seemed unlikely to muster a majority vote for a delay.

Morse said he thought the maneuver to hook civil rights riders on the school bill smacked of subterfuge. He said he thought civil rights should be considered in a separate measure.

The ordinary procedure would be for the Senate's Judiciary Committee to consider civil rights legislation and, if it chose, to submit a bill to the Senate.

If the Senate passes the measure, it could go directly to a Senate-House conference committee for agreement on the form in which it would be presented to both houses for their final approval.

Pilot, Housewife Killed In Crash

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — A young Navy pilot and an immigrant housewife were killed Monday when a plane crashed into a house in a heavily populated subdivision near the Moffett Field Naval Air Station.

The pilot was Lt. Gordon N. Blake, 26, who lived just a few blocks from the home where his single-engine attack bomber crashed.

The housewife, decapitated as she stood at her kitchen sink, was Margit Halmi, 44, Mrs. Halmi, her husband, and their two sons came here three years ago after escaping from Communist Hungary.

Held For Grand Jury Action

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Matthew Hammond, 36, of Olyphant, held on an open charge of murder in the fatal shooting of another Olyphant man, waived a hearing Monday and was committed to Lackawanna County Jail for grand jury action.

Hammond surrendered to state police about four hours after he allegedly shot James Meehan, 31, at Eddie's Bar and Grill in Olyphant.

AF Would Give President Free Hand In Air Alert

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force wants Congress to give the President clear authority to put the big bombers on continuing airborne alert and spend whatever is needed to keep them there as long as necessary.

The current defense budget provides only 90 million dollars to prepare the Strategic Air Force for such an alert. Admittedly this would be a drop in the bucket if SAC were to attempt to keep a significant portion of its bombers in the air at all times, safe from ground attacks, fully armed with nuclear weapons and ready to retaliate at once after an atomic assault.

But Secretary of the Air Force

Dudley C. Sharp and Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, told the Senate Appropriations Committee Monday that the President could spend up to 90 million dollars in the bill is a provision allowing the President to spend whatever is necessary to launch and maintain a full-scale airborne alert and come back to Congress for the money later.

Could Spend 600 Million

Sens. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) and Dennis Chavez (D-NM) said that under the language of last year's defense budget the President could spend up to 600 million dollars next year and up to a billion in each of two subsequent years to provide the sort of full airborne alert asked by Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander.

Sharp agreed that the present wording of the law seems to have that effect but the Defense Department feels Congress should make it perfectly clear that it wants this procedure even if added words are needed.

Power asked and was refused 600 million dollars in the budget so an airborne alert could be started at once and maintained indefinitely. He argued that for some years SAC must provide more than 90 per cent of U.S. deterrent force and cannot be counted on to be effective if vulnerable to sneak attack on the ground.

To be effective, such an alert would have to keep from a quarter to a third of the heavy bombers in the air at all times. An alert of this type could be begun today but probably could not be maintained for any great length of time because of the heavy added wear and tear on engines and other parts, not only of the bombers but of the tanker planes which would have to keep the bombers refueled and ready to start toward distant targets at any instant.

Puzzlement Grips Americans On Approach To Puerto Rico

By Ruth B. and James H. Ottaway

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — With rebellion in Algeria and with Cuba in turmoil, we approached San Juan, the capital city, wondering if we would be welcome.

Were the Puerto Ricans in New York City the same as those in San Juan or Ponce? Where Puerto Ricans are the subject of debate in the industrial east, how would we find them "at home"?

Would we from the states be welcome in the city, the slums, the mountains and on the shores of this Caribbean Atlantic island, a part of the U. S.?

These questions concerned us as we glided down to San Juan's modern International Airport after a smooth six-hour flight from New York City.

We'll try to give you some answers as we saw them after

(This is the first in a series of articles on Puerto Rico by Ruth B. and James H. Ottaway. Mr. Ottaway is president of Ottaway Newspapers-Radio Inc. and publisher of The Daily Record. The Ottaways have been on a tour led by Bishop Fred Pierce Curran of the Philadelphia Area of the Methodist Church, which includes the Wyoming Conference.)

a week of travelling about the island . . . far from the beauty of our ocean-side hotel and its inviting swimming pool . . . inside native homes . . . talking to Puerto Ricans themselves.

First, a few pertinent facts: Puerto Rico's population is some 2,200,000. Of these, 224,000 live in San Juan.

The island has been a commonwealth since 1952. Its constitution gives it full autonomy; it is associated with the United States.

Spanish is the native language. Spain's four-century rule ended during the Spanish-American War on October 18, 1898 when the United States took over.

Gov. Luis Munoz Marin and his Popular Democratic Party have been in control of the island since 1948. His party supports the "associated" status with the United States and opposes "statehood" as economic suicide for the island.

The native Republican Party is for statehood. The much smaller Independence Party—as its name implies—stands for severing all connections with Uncle Sam.

The weather: 70 to 80 degrees in January to 75 to 85 degrees from June to September. In case you might think otherwise, dollars are used here as at home. Prices are no different from the mainland. If anything, due to cost of shipping, food and other necessities are generally higher.

New Storm Dumps Snow On Plains

(By The Associated Press)

A NEW snowstorm charged eastward across the Southern Plains Monday and freezing weather stabbed northern Florida and Mississippi.

The new storm in the plains dumped up to nine inches of snow on parts of Oklahoma and spread eastward into Arkansas and Missouri. Snow piled up fast in the Fort Smith, Ark., area and at mid-day many roads in western Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma were reported practically impassable.

Icy winds added to the problems of cleanup crews battling to clear highways in the East and South. They were blocked by a weekend snow storm that wheeled across the South and up the eastern seaboard, hammering hard at more than a dozen states.

47 Deaths

The storm was the worst of the winter in many sections. It was blamed for at least 47 deaths, mostly from storm-related accidents or heart attacks induced by over exertion.

Cold air flowed into the East and Southeast in the wake of the storm. The mercury slid below freezing in northern Florida where Jacksonville had a low of 30 degrees.

The weekend storm plastered New York State with up to 30 inches of snow and Pennsylvania with up to 20 inches. The storm also dumped from 2 to 15 inches of snow in southern areas from Mississippi to the Carolinas. Drifts piled up 10 feet high in parts of New York State. Children in Syracuse, a city of some 214,000 had a holiday when all city schools closed for the day. The upstate community had 20 inches of snow.

Roads Blocked

Many schools also were closed in western Pennsylvania where secondary and rural roads were blocked. The Pittsburgh Coal Co. halted operations at three mines in the Johnstown area.

New England braced for a blizzard but the storm veered away and weakened and the area had nothing worse than cold and windy weather.

Most of Texas also escaped the threat of heavy snow when a storm centered over that area veered eastward.

Storm deaths by states showed New York 12, Pennsylvania 10, Virginia 8, Tennessee, Ohio, Kentucky and North Carolina 3 each, and South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Massachusetts and New Jersey 1 each.

Light snow and snow flurries were widely scattered over the central and northern Appalachians and from Michigan into southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois and eastern Iowa.

Showers also were scattered along western Washington and Oregon. Some snow or flurries fell over the Northern Plateau and Rocky Mountain region.

Parochial School Issue Debated

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — "Catholic parochial schools exist because of an authoritarian power which requires them—not because parents wish them," a Pittsburgh educator said Monday.

"The thesis of parochial education is an import from Europe," said Prof. Maurice J. Thomas. "It does not dovetail with our system."

A Catholic clergyman, Rev. Neil G. McCluskey S. J., disagreed saying that parochial schools take a great many students who would otherwise go to public schools and "should therefore also qualify for some public aid."

Branded Suspect

BOSTON (AP) — A former shipmate testified Monday that Willem van Rie branded himself a suspect in Lynn Kauffman's death, then asked "if you do something to somebody and it turns out to be fatal is that murder?"

Good Morning!

There may be a destiny that shapes our ends, but our middles are of our own chewing.

Tragedy At Wind Gap Young Brothers Drown

WIND GAP (AP) — Two small brothers drowned in a pond a short distance from their home Monday.

The victims, Frank R. Brunell, 3, and his brother Clarence R., 5, sons of Mrs. Catherine Brunell, were found lying face down in 30 inches of water by their mother.

Dr. Robert Dreher, of Wind Gap, used a resuscitator for an hour in an attempt to revive the boys.

The pond, on the property of John Duval, is between the boy's home and that of their grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Luckey.

Police Chief Leo Reinhart said the brothers apparently wandered out on the ice of the pond, fell through, and were pulled down by their heavy clothing.

Mrs. Luckey said the boys had been over to visit her and then had gone outside.

When they did not return the grandmother and her two daughters, Mary and Catherine, went out to look for them.

Dr. John Rorto, deputy coroner of Northampton County, ruled accidental drowning.

Mrs. Finch Tried To Shoot Her, Carole Tregoff Claims

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carole Tregoff burst into tears on the witness stand Monday as she testified her lover's wife pulled a gun on her.

Taking the stand at her trial with Dr. R. Bernard Finch on charges of murdering his wife, the pretty, 23-year-old redhead told the jury she and the 42-year-old society surgeon continued to live together for 20 months, the fatal night of July 18 in the garage of the Finch home at suburban West Covina.

She said the doctor asked his wife if he and Miss Tregoff could talk to her.

"The next happened," said Carole, "she had a gun."

Took Gun From Car

"Just time for her to turn around," said Miss Tregoff. "To take the gun out of the car and turn around."

Miss Tregoff dabbled at her eyes with a handkerchief and continued: "An instant later she turned around and had the gun in her hand. He (Dr. Finch) threw something at me—I grabbed it—it all seemed like the same instant."

She said the object thrown at her was the shaving case which Dr. Finch had testified he gave to Carole as he struggled with Mrs. Finch for the gun.

Carole said she grabbed the case and fled as the doctor struggled with his wife for possession of the pistol.

Dr. Finch testified earlier he saw the shaving kit on the floor of the car and threw it to Carole because he feared—erroneously, it turned out—it contained another weapon.

Murder Kit

Earlier Crail questioned her sharply about statements she gave to police before her arrest in which she made no mention of the attaché case now admitted having carried to the Finch garage. The prosecution has referred to the attaché case as a "murder kit."

She said she didn't mention the attaché case to officers who interviewed her after the death of Mrs. Finch because she didn't remember it at the time.

Making her long awaited appearance on the witness stand at the sensational trial, the shapely ex-model said she did not kill or plot to kill her lover's socialite wife.

Queen's Doctors Placed On Alert

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth's four doctors were put on stand-by alert Monday night and the 33-year-old monarch settled back like any other mother-to-be on the last weary wait.

Her third baby, if things run their normal course, should come this week, probably Tuesday or Wednesday.

Airliner Bombing Suspect Sentenced In Auto Theft

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Robert Vernon Spears, central figure in a suspected airliner crash, was sentenced Monday to five years in prison for interstate transportation of a stolen car.

The off-imprisoned Dallas naturopath's troubles apparently won't end there.

Bomb Probe Pressed

The FBI said it will keep trying to learn whether Spears, in an effort to collect more than $100,000 in insurance, planted a bomb on the National Airlines plane which carried 42 persons to their death in the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16, 1959.

Spears, 65, had been listed as a passenger on the ill-fated flight. But, following his arrest in Phoenix Jan. 20, his wife quoted him as saying a fellow ex-convict, William Allen Taylor of Tampa, Fla., had taken his seat on the plane.

U.S. District Judge Dave Ling gave Spears the maximum term for driving Taylor's car from Tampa to Phoenix without the owner's permission. Spears pleaded guilty Feb. 1.

In Dallas, Mrs. Spears, 36, said she would try to find a job to support herself and the children, Kenneth 2, and Robin Deborah, 10 months.

The prison to which Spears will be committed was not determined immediately. He has served terms in at least eight states for mail fraud, forgery, larceny and other crimes.

Navy Search Continues For Phantom

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Argentine navy said Monday night it is still intensively hunting a will-o'-the-wisp submarine in the Golfo Nuevo.

Meanwhile, a feeling spread here that the elusive boat — if it had been there in the first place — had squirmed out of the blockaded gulf through a sizable portion of the Argentine fleet.

A navy communique said: "The Golfo Nuevo operation continues according to plans with the same intensity of the first moment."

The U. S. Navy flew two patrol planes of equipment here last week.

More Equipment

In Washington the Navy said it has flown additional anti-submarine warfare equipment to Argentina as well as a team of 13 undersea warfare experts who are expected to serve as advisers.

Navy Secretary Rear Adm. Gaston Clement met with President Arturo Frondizi for 20 minutes. Defense Minister Justo Villar conferred with the President earlier but he declined to disclose details of the talk.

The minister said he did not know if the submarine got away. The 17-day search has engaged perhaps a score of ships plus planes in a body of water only a bit larger than San Francisco Bay. Argentina claims the gulf as her territorial waters.

Depth Charges

There was no word on the navy's "Operation Sinking," a last-ditch attack presumably making use of depth charges and electronic equipment flown from the United States.

Argentine depth charges have been effective only down to 262 feet, while U.S. depth charges can reach 656 feet. The gulf floor dips below 500 feet in spots, so a submarine presumably could dive below the range of the Argentine depth charges.

Even though the 10-mile-wide entrance to the 20-by-40-mile gulf has been reported blockaded, an Argentine navy captain just back from the nautical game of hide-and-seek said the underwater intruder had sufficient speed to avoid capture by Argentina's warships.

He insisted a submarine really had been in the gulf, but rejected speculation it was a Soviet Union submarine, something the Soviet Embassy here has already denied.

Testing Defenses

"If it were Russian it would try to hide while observing military centers in the Golfo Nuevo," he said.

The officer's theory was the submarine might have been a U. S. submarine trying to test Argentine defenses.

The United States has denied knowledge of any of its submarines being near the area, but the captain said the United States has been trying to negotiate a mutual defense pact with Argentina for years. An agreement might provide newer military equipment for the armed services of Argentina.

During the weekend official announcements indicated a second submarine had slipped into the gulf 650 miles south of Buenos Aires to help its crippled sister ship. This second ship suddenly disappeared from later reports.

Mysterious Object In Skies

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A mysterious object hurtled through western Alaska skies late Sunday from the direction of Soviet Siberia, the Anchorage Times reported Monday.

A Wien Alaska Airlines employee at Nome, Pote Walsh, said the flame-belching object appeared to be a manned aircraft traveling at tremendous speed about 2,000 to 3,000 feet above the earth.

Walsh told the Times the object was headed southeast in the direction of this Alaskan metropolis and was sighted later at Unalakleet and St. Michael about 150 miles across Norton sound from Nome.

Yesterday's Death

Dear Abby

Are You For Real?

Dear Abby: I don't believe in beating around the bush so I wrote to a girl (she is a senior at college) and asked her, in a very business-like manner, to marry me. I stated what I had to offer her in the way of security. I also put in writing what I expected of her, as my wife, to do. For instance:

(1) Make my breakfast every morning. (2) No hired help until we have a baby. (3) I expect no less than four children. (4) I will handle all the money. It has been almost three weeks since I sent that letter (registered). Should I write to her again or give her more time?

BUSINESSLIKE

IN COGNITO

Dear Businesslike: Are you kidding? Perhaps the girl is so overwhelmed with the prospect of marrying you that she is paralyzed by indecision. If you assume that she is not interested, you've got a pretty good bet.

Dear Abby: What kind of a husband tells his wife that she should line herself up dates with other men when he is out of town?

Dear Curious: One with a guilty conscience.

Dear Abby: If people invite you to their home for dinner and you decline their invitation, do you owe them an invitation?

I say NO and my husband

Dear In: It all depends upon your reason for declining. If you do not care to socialize with the people, continue to decline their invitations until they quit inviting you. If you are unable to accept, but would like to be invited again, return the invitation as soon as possible.

Confidential To Generous Parents: Someone once said, "Give a child everything he asks for and pretty soon he will be asking the governor for a pardon." Don't go overboard!

"What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope."

Bear Creek Will Be Top Recreation Area

HARRISBURG — The Bear Creek Reservoir area will become one of the Commonwealth's finest recreation areas if plans of the Dept. of Forests and Waters are completed.

Work to turn the area from its present wild state into a recreation park only awaits completion of the work on the reservoir itself.

About one-fifth of the construction of the reservoir remains to be completed, the Nello L. Teer Co., Durham, N. C., construction firm has reported, then the actual work of the Forests and Waters Dept. will begin.

Located along the Lehigh River, the park will not only contain the dam and reservoir, but will also have some of the finest fishing streams in the state, and perhaps the nation.

Near White Haven
Nearest community of any size to the park is White Haven. Plans for providing the park with the newest and finest facilities in the Commonwealth have been advanced by Joseph A. Blatt, head of the Division of State Parks of the Dept. of Forests and Waters.

Picnic areas will be provided along the shore of the reservoir, with a view of two valleys—the Lehigh River and Bear Creek—plus the overall site of the body of water itself.

While almost entirely in Carbon County, the Bear Creek Park will be readily available to those persons visiting the Pocono Mountains.

Only 15 miles from the soon-to-be-constructed site of Bear Creek is the already well-visited Hickory Run State Park.

Up 'Pike Revenue

The two parks, it is hoped, will up the revenue of the Northeast Extension of the Turnpike which has not been earning sufficient money to retire its bond issue.

Statistics on the Bear Creek reservoir itself show it is the largest earth-fill broad reservoir this side of the Mississippi.

The spillway, when finished, will be 400 feet wide and 234 feet in height.

When full, the water depth will be 50 feet at the breast of the dam.

Dam height, from the solid rock foundation to the top, will measure 234 feet.

A swampy area some distance from the dam site will hold any flood waters which may exceed the 36-billion-gallon capacity of the dam. The water will be let from the dam through the spillway when the water rises above the danger point.

Agriculture Dept. Got 19 Watershed Applications

NINETEEN watershed applications were received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Ivan McKeever, State Conservationist, reported.

Interest in the project has mounted during 1959, as 19 applications were submitted from twenty counties. These requests for assistance total more than one million acres of land and amount to over half of the active applications received since the program started in 1954.

Many Voters Facing Rights Forfeiture

MORE THAN 1,600 registered voters in Monroe County will have their registrations cancelled in the next few weeks unless they fill out and return cards being mailed them by the Commissioners' office, it was reported yesterday.

The voters have not exercised their vote in two years, therefore they will be dropped from the rolls.

Since there are presently about 18,900 registered voters in the county, the non-voters approach almost ten percent of the total voters.

Notices On Way

Notices are being sent out by the office to the voters who have not voted in the past two years, asking them to fill out the card, sign it and return it to the Commissioners' office.

It was stressed that the card must be signed by the voter so comparisons of such signatures could be made to authenticate both records.

Last year's total of cards sent out was slightly over this year's total — 1,800. This was just about ten percent on the nose.

Plan To Inspect

In other business yesterday, the Commissioners announced that physical inspection of those properties under appeal for a review by the entire Board will be made soon, weather permitting.

Red Arrow Proposes Hike

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co. (Red Arrow) Monday proposed an estimated $246,400 annual rate increase, starting March 17.

In a schedule filed with the Public Utility Commission, the up per Darby firm would raise base cash fares from 20 to 25 cents and inaugurate use of a 21¢ cent token for 85 cents.

The line said the additional revenue is needed to meet higher operating costs, particularly wages.

Red Arrow runs buses and trolleys between the 60th Street Terminal in Upper Darby and points in Delaware, Montgomery and Chester counties.

Pontiff May Declare Event

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII may proclaim an extraordinary jubilee in 1961 to celebrate the 10th centenary of St. Paul's arrival in Rome.

Vatican sources said Monday the Pope is considering this to prepare for the Ecumenical — world Church Council in 1962.

The last extraordinary jubilee was proclaimed in 1933 by Pope Pius XI for the 19th centenary of the Redemption.

Red Cross Seeks Aid For Family

THE MONROE County Chapter of the American Red Cross has issued an appeal for furniture and clothing for the Hine-line family who lost their possessions in a fire in their apartment on Washington St.

Hine-line who has been out of work just got a job last Tuesday. They have pots, pans and dishes but are in need of basic furniture. They also need clothes for the baby, 13 months old, for Mrs. Hine-line who wears a size 16.

More Needed
Some clothing has already been provided for Hine-line but he still needs shirts and work trousers. He is six feet tall and needs 31 inch waist and 31 inch length in trousers.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Liquor Control Board Monday revoked the liquor license of Sara Jane Kassab, Frackville, Schuylkill County.

The revocation is effective March 8. The board cited these reasons: licensee not the only person pecuniarily interested in licensed business; licensee has obtained other employment; falsified application for liquor license; violation of bar maid act.

PM Chamber Advocates Closer Tie With ESSC

A CLOSER bond between the community and East Stroudsburg State College was knotted yesterday when the Pocono Mountain Chamber of Commerce agreed to set up a liaison committee between themselves and the school "on the hill."

The further merger of the area and the educational institution was cemented after Dr. LeRoy Koehler, ESSC president, and Dr. Eugene Powers, head of the school's education department, spoke to the Chamber at their regular luncheon-meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

First Move
The first move to set up the "wedding" of East Stroudsburg

College and the community was proposed last week when Daily Record General Manager Horace Heller got together leaders of area business and industries to probe the feasibility of such a jointure.

At that time it was generally approved that the use of the college by the area was a must to up the community's educational and cultural standards.

Yesterday Dr. Koehler told the Chamber that the school certainly does aid the community, leaving in its midst a two-year payroll of approximately $1,500,000. He also noted that overall — over a two-year period — that $2,700,000 is headed by students, faculty and employees on the locale.

Reservoir Of Talent
Dr. Powers said "there is a reservoir of teaching talent" at East Stroudsburg State College. The expert in industrial and business problems also pointed out that "no problem is unsolvable" and we have the material and teachers to help alleviate some of these obstacles which occur daily at work and in the home.

Following the approval of setting up a liaison group to work with the college, the Chamber also moved to give Dr. Koehler a vote of thanks for the "fine work he has done for the county over the years."

Plan To Stock Susquehanna

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Susquehanna River between Conowingo and Harrisburg will be stocked with striped bass, the State Fish Commission said Monday.

Dr. Albert S. Hazzard, acting commission director, said the program is aimed at "trying to find some game fish that will adapt themselves to the Lower Susquehanna and eventually provide top sport for state anglers."

Striped bass, commonly called strippers or rockfish, are usually associated with salt and brackish waters of the Chesapeake and Delaware bays and the New Jersey coast.

Hazzard also disclosed plans to step up the commission's stocking program of muskellunge in the same area. An experimental stocking program of muskellunge has been under way for two years.

Family Left Homeless By Fire

HARRISBURG (AP)—A family of three was left homeless Monday by a fire which destroyed a ranch-style dwelling in suburban West Hanover Twp.

Harold J. Schaffer said he and his wife awoke early in the morning and found their living room "a wall of flame." The couple awakened their son, Ronald, 17, and fled from the burning home in their night clothes.

Schaffer estimated damage at $28,000. Police Chief Earl C. Imberman said the cause of the fire was unknown.

Cheyney College President Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. Leslie Pinckney Hill, 75, president of Cheyney State College and a nationally-known Negro educator, died Monday in Mercy-Douglass Hospital.

He suffered a heart attack last Wednesday.

Dr. Hill was president of the teachers college for 37 years. He retired in 1951, but continued as president emeritus. He was a graduate of Harvard University and a writer of both poetry and prose.

He was the founder and president of the board of West Chester Community Center. He lived in Yeadon.

Should Remove Snow

The sun shone brightly at times yesterday, but not bright or long enough to melt away the mounds of snow which plows had piled a foot or more high out from the curbs on twin-borough main streets.

And so, hundreds of people were forced to wade through slush and snow to get from their cars to the sidewalk or to cross the street. In places where the sun's rays did not reach, the snow banks remained hard and slippery, causing more than one motorist to become stalled until someone came to the rescue.

All that seemed to matter to borough authorities was that the traffic lanes in the center of the streets were clear of snow. No effort was being made to remove the accumulation left by the snow-plows on Sunday.

Not too many years ago Stroudsburg especially enjoyed a reputation for prompt and efficient removal of snow from its principal streets and crosswalks.

Not so any more. The tendency appears to be to let Nature take care of the snow removal, regardless of the inconvenience to the public.

Why, we ask, should we wait for the unlikely prospect of 80-degree temperature or a long, warm rain to melt the snow? Why not put the borough's sizable investment in snow-removal equipment to work just as soon as the last flake falls?

The motorist has paid for snow removal, at least in the shopping district, through the pennies, nickels and dimes left in the borough's parking meters during the year. He shouldn't be forced to wade in snow banks a foot high after a three-inch snowfall to get from his car to a parking meter.

He has paid for the privilege of parking and should be accorded the courtesy of a space cleared of snow. And, unless the snow is a heavy one, that courtesy should be extended within a day after the storm ends — not be forced to wait until Nature melted away the curbside piles.

Facing Up To Farm Mess?

The Missile Gap isn't the only one Americans ought to be worried about.

There's the problem of the farm gap, too. The gulf that separates our present farm policy from reason and logic is appalling — and growing.

The mess dates back to the World War II years when we paid farmers to overproduce. In essence, the system hasn't changed. But, meanwhile, the march of science on the farm has raised productivity to a point where surplus is accumulating at a preposterous rate.

Nobody quite knows what to do with it, despite brave speeches about sending it to the starving millions around the world in the name of democracy and humanity.

In other years, President Eisenhower has offered programs designed to reduce the farm subsidy — and surplus crops. The long-range aim has been to free the farmer from government control and have him, instead, compete progressively in open market under the rules of supply and demand.

There still would be some subsidies since the farmer's fortunes are tied to such imponderables as weather, but they would be kept to sensible proportions.

Each time, Congress has reproved the President. In turn, the President has battled Congress on its own high-subsidy programs inspired by the powerful farm voting bloc.

Now the President, with his new farm message, has told Congress in effect:

"Here's the mess. Go ahead and see what you can do about it."

He would, he said, go along with any proposal that is economically sound and not a "political poultrie." High on the list of his general guidelines is, of course, a substantial reduction of price subsidies.

It would be something of a miracle if our legislators paid heed and really came up with a sound farm program this time. This is, after all, a full-scale campaign year.

It would take an unaccustomed display of political courage to tell the big farm interests which shovel off the lion's share of subsidies at the expense of the more needy small farmers, that the gravy train has to come to a permanent halt. —Harrisburg Patriot

The Pennsylvania Story

Is Outlook Gloomy?

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Irony has its place — oftentimes in the unexpected.

At the moment that is the case insofar as Pennsylvania is concerned. In a large sense in this instance it falls in the category of the unexpected.

Last week Governor Lawrence at his press conference expressed gloom over the financial picture of the Keystone State.

The gloomy financial outlook was prompted in response to a reporter's query as to whether there appeared any possibility of a surplus at the end of the fiscal year.

The only reason the point was raised at all was because controlling Senate Republicans in insisting on recessing of the 1960 Legislature rather than final adjournment as preferred by Democratic Administration forces, pointed out that one of their reasons for recessing centered around the possibility of a surplus at the end of the fiscal year — which could help underwrite a school subsidy increase.

Democratic lawmakers — with one ear tuned to the Democratic front office — argued until blue in the face and pulled every trick in the legislative bag to get the legislative branch out of town finally, arguing on the surplus front that there "simply could not be a surplus" — and therefore the idea of recessing rather than adjourning was "absurd."

Actually the school subsidy increase and the possibility of a surplus were incidental but nevertheless for public consumption, the prime point of debate.

The big issue, as noted previously by this column, centered around the fervent desire of the Administration (Democratic) to get the legislative branch (Republican veto-controlled) out of its hair. A Legislature in session or in recess poses a constant threat to the executive branch.

Mr. Lawrence on several occasions has let it be known in no uncertain terms his dislike and distaste for the legislative recess idea. His latest press conference last week pointed up this fact once again.

Asked about the possibility of there being a surplus at the end of the current fiscal year, Mr. Lawrence turned to his Secretary of Administration, Dr. David H. Kurtzman and suggested that he answer the question.

Said Administration fiscal chief Kurtzman:

"The picture as of the end of January looks more gloomy than it did at the end of December."

Mr. Lawrence then had this to say:

"And that is an indication of the futility of what has happened, this recess and all. They could have very well adjourned."

But — State Treasurer Robert F. Kent, reading of the Governor's comments and those offered by Secretary of Administration Kurtzman played another tune.

"The Governor's recent reference to a 'gloomy' fiscal picture for Pennsylvania is utterly misleading. Based on the facts available in the State Treasurer's office, actual revenues will be in excess of the estimates made by the Governor's Office and upon which his present budget was adopted by the Legislature and approved by him."

Who is right? Pennsylvanians have a right to know. Let the legislative branch — which by constitutional decree has the final and top say anyway — dig out the true facts. That there should be such a widespread difference on such an important matter between the two fiscal offices (GOP Treasurer, Democratic Administration) is ridiculous.

Ironically indeed — the incident points up more dramatically and forcefully than anything could, the need for a legislative branch these days to stay "in being" — or in recess as at present!

Wall Of Snow Blocks Meter Parkers

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Business Of Government

We have become so absorbed in the greatness of our international position that we forget our national housekeeping which is of equal significance.

A politician can make headlines by associating himself with international relations and making speeches on subjects which few understand, but there is little excitement over such an issue as abolishing the Postal Savings System, which has no real purpose, is not used much by our people and is constantly receding in effectiveness.

Perhaps most citizens have forgotten that the Post Office is in the banking business.

For instance, in 1947, the Postal Savings System had 4,196,000 subscribers; in 1955, 2,711,000 subscribers and it is estimated that the figure for 1959 will show 1,600,000 subscribers.

Considering that the savings banks of the country are now well-established and deposits are insured, the Postal Savings System has lost its value and ought to be abolished.

The deposits have decreased from about $400,000,000 in 1947 to $948,000,000 at the end of 1959. Most of the principal mutual savings banks in New York City have deposits equal to the entire Postal Savings System.

This is only one of many examples of housekeeping tasks that need to be done. The Hoover Commission has shown what needs to be done and great sums of money can be saved by cleaning out the rubbish that has accumulated over the years in the operations of the Executive branch of the government.

Whereas in private enterprise, parts of businesses are discarded when they no longer serve, in the government, those agencies which are once established are not discarded because politicians develop a vested interest in their existence. Also sometimes businessmen develop a vested interest in a particular government agency which looks after their affairs.

Thus, there is an accumulation of useless, costly agencies in government which inflate the expense of government operations and which the people really cannot afford.

Some day some Senator or Representative will devote his career to fighting against these wasteful, duplicative expenditures which are intolerable in a period of inflation.

The Eisenhower Administration has not faced this housekeeping problem realistically. President Eisenhower, who cannot be a candidate for reelection and who therefore is free from most Presidents to do courageous deeds, seems never to have had the time to devote to the smaller tasks of administration.

Perhaps Sherman Adams used to look after the independent agencies, but Herbert Hoover has pointed to the impossibility of the President finding the time for it.

For instance, it is now necessary to reorganize the independent agencies, the ICC, the FTC, the FCC, the SEC, etc., etc. Some of these agencies have grown into bureaucratic monsters, delaying our development as a nation, slowing up progress, maintaining at any risk the status quo.

Whatever advantages the independent agencies have, they have become too entrenched in their own authority and have lost flexibility. Note how long it took the Federal Trade Commission to discover that the claims about tar in filtered cigarettes were hardly truthful statements.

Or note that the Federal Communications Commission, established to monitor the air which is the property of the whole American people, took forever to observe that television was being used to perpetrate a hoax and a swindle and has not yet done anything about it.

Even now, with all the noise about payola, comedians slip in plugs for Florida real estate and their own private automobiles. And has the Securities and Exchange Commission done anything of significance in connection with the dishonest sale of stock in New York, particularly the modern methods employed in so-called Boiler Shop operations, which sell as much under as over the counter?

They do not even have an adequate force to do the policing that is necessary.

The administrative reorganization is essential to efficient government. Apart from the possibility of taking four or five billion dollars out of the cost of governmental operations, the reorganization of the independent agencies and other Executive agencies could make government action more efficient, swifter, give the citizen a better handling of his problems and his relations with his own government.

The possibility of such a reorganization is not in the offing. The likelihood is that the great men will devote themselves to being great men and the administration of government will remain as confused as ever.

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

Saturday night, Feb. 27, Stroudsburg firemen will hold their annual dance and floor show.

For the money you can't beat the worthiness of this project or the sincerity of the organization backing this one-night stand.

As we all know the Stroudsburg Firemen is a volunteer group which tends to our needs daily without dissension or hesitancy.

What we gain in protection far overshadows our aid in any shape or form. Most of the time we don't even take time out to thank this qualified membership of men for their help over the year — let alone enrich their coffers to the extent where they are self-supporting.

The only chance they have of keeping with the times is by a dance held annually. Even this isn't backed to the fullest by the community. However, it is a small way we have of saying "thanks" to the local Smokey Stovers.

This year's affair will be held at the American Legion Home, East Stroudsburg. According to fellows like Victor Koch, Bill Miller and Robert Shaw it will be bigger and better than ever.

Tickets have gone out to practically every home and business establishment and industry in the locale. Many have been returned but there are still plenty "outstanding."

What can we do to make it a 100 percent effort? Well we can see to it that all of the duets are back with cash in official hands immediately. Word of mouth praise for these unselfish men who give time and effort for our safety is about the best advertising we can give.

The dance-floor show spectacle has many helping hands. Firemen like Harold Carlton, Francis Doleiden, Dave Lee, Otto Hagerty and Kenny Werkeiser are only a few who have been working daily to make the event a financial and social happy memory.

Other men of equal efficiency are doing their part to make the once-a-year get-together a success.

We hope that John Q. Public will dig deep into his cash resources and make sure the Feb. 27th festival of music and entertainment will ring loud and long favorably into the minds and hearts of the Stroudsburg VOLUNTEER Firemen.

Inside Washington

Census May Reveal Spending Trends

Washington — The Commerce Department is up to its ears in hiring and training personnel and making numerous other arrangements for the 1960 decennial census.

The head-count is important, of course. Some states will win additional members in the House of Representatives at the expense of others.

However, the government obtains a lot of statistical information, as well, pertaining to such things as family formations, city and country dwellers, individual income structures, etc.

The Census Bureau wants to add a new category to its fund of information this time around. It has asked Congress for permission to learn the trend of consumer spending. It wants to collect statistics on the way families divide their paychecks and is particularly interested in the public's purchases of such durable consumer items as appliances, furniture, television sets and similar goods, which families want but which they seldom need immediately.

The information would be of great value to business and could also form the basis for a revision of a part of the federal tax program.

Civil War — Beginning on Jan. 1, 1961, Washington and 39 other locations around the country will begin a four-year observance of the Civil War centennial years. At present, the Washington group, a private organization, is broke. But nonetheless it has big plans for whooping it up when the time comes.

One of its most dazzling ideas is to have actor Raymond Massey play Lincoln at a reenactment of Lincoln's inauguration on March 4, 1961. Massey would appear before a present-day joint session of Congress and the whole thing would go out on a nationwide television hook-up.

Another spectacular is still a longer way off. The group hopes to have a bang-up parade down Pennsylvania Ave. in April, 1965, to mark the 100th anniversary of the end of the Civil war.

The Allen-Scott Report

Red Subs Off Panama

Washington — Four and possibly more Russian submarines are operating around Cuba and the Panama Canal.

They have been positively identified both by sight and sonar.

These Soviet submarines were first detected in the strategic Cuba-Panama Canal waters shortly before Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan arrived in Cuba. The subs are under constant surveillance by U.S. anti-submarine planes, surface vessels and submarines.

U.S. officials also have been told that Premier Fidel Castro was supplied with "weapons and personnel" by Russian submarines both before the fall of the Batista regime and since then.

Authoritative source of this information is Major Pedro Diaz, former Air Chief of Staff of Castro's regime, who broke with him late last year over extremist policies. Diaz fled to the U.S. and has given officials here detailed accounts of Russian submarine and other activities in Cuba.

So far none of the Red subs has been identified as nuclear-powered.

However, one of them is remarkably fast, with a speed of more than 30 knots underwater. It is either a new, modern, or a radical design, or an atomic aircraft.

These subs are apparently being supplied and refueled by Russian freighters and tankers. Where and when this is being done is still not definitely established. But such maintenance vessels are known to be in the South Atlantic.

A recently-spotted submarine refueling ship is the tanker Alexander Nevsky.

The Canadian and Mexican navies have been directed to depth-bomb unidentified submarines that do not surface when ordered to do so. This drastic action is to be taken in the coastal waters of the two countries.

The U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff have discussed a similar policy, but have done nothing about it.

President Eisenhower will offer U.S. aid to strengthen the anti-submarine forces of the countries he visits during his South American trip. He will do that on the recommendation of the Joint Chiefs.

Unnoticed in the press reports of Mikoyan's Cuban visit was a significant policy pronouncement by Major Ernesto Guevara, leftist lieutenant of Castro and head of the country's national bank.

The day after Mikoyan's arrival, Guevara told a Havana audience that the Castro regime will "take control of from 51 to 100 percent of the basic industries."

These were listed by Guevara as agriculture, heavy industry, fuel and metallurgy, in agriculture, he included sugar and cattle.

Big String — Senate Democratic leaders are tying a significant condition to their participation in the scheduled East-West summit conference in Geneva.

They are demanding assurances of "an active and responsible role in these negotiations."

That's what Senator J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, told Secretary Herter in a private discussion. Herter indicated the President is prepared to take one or more Democratic senators with him as "consultants" to the May parley.

Fulbright expressed no enthusiasm for that. He said frankly he saw no need for it. However, if the President feels Democrats should be members of his official party, to demonstrate national unity in dealing with Russia, Fulbright held they must have assurances of taking an active part in the negotiations.

The Democrats are determined, Fulbright stressed, not to go to Geneva merely as "window dressing."

"This matter has been carefully considered in the Foreign Relations Committee," Fulbright told Herter, "and it was the consensus of the Committee that if any senators are to accompany the President, they should be given active and responsible roles and not be kept in a side room and briefed on what is going on."

"There is a strong feeling in the Committee that it would be much better for the President not to ask any senators to go with him if there is any doubt as to just what part they will play in these negotiations."

House Democratic Leader John McCormack, Mass., is urging State Department officials to advise the President to go to Russia before the summit meeting. That would strengthen the President's hand there, in McCormack's opinion, because he is certain to get a warm reception from the Russian people.

Just Between Us —

—by Bobby Westbrook

By one of those twists of fate that make the newspaper business a little different than most, the harder I work, the less I have to say; the closer I keep my nose to the grindstone, the less I see — except my own nose.

The more I flit around minding everybody else's business but my own, the more I find to write about. Contrariwise, a conscientious day spent at the desk leaves me practically speechless. Practically but unfortunately for you not entirely.

I go into sort of a wool-gathering trance. I argue or agree with the reported statements of a club speaker. With every engagement I always have to try to figure out an appropriate preliminary romance and how it all began. Boy next door? At school or college? Working at the same place?

I go off on a tangent from the announcement about a Leap Year dance to wonder how come adding an extra day to the year ever led to the tradition that on leap year women could take the initiative in asking men to marry. And from there it's a short step to wondering whether women do — in leap year more than any other year, I mean?

And writing The Baby's Name leads me to speculation: did they want a boy or a girl? Was the baby something they'd longed for? Planned for? Or been surprised by? Where did that name come from?

I can always happily answer my own questions without any regard to whether the answers are right or wrong, and it isn't dull — just disorganized like rummaging through a button box. I do much better picking the brains of other people whose thoughts seem to come in more orderly and incisive patterns.

Discipline Progressive Club Theme

Saylorsburg — Rev. Clyde Levergood of Cherry Valley spoke on "Child Discipline" at the February meeting of the Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg in the Chestnut Hill High School.

"God disciplines His children," the pastor said, "and it is necessary for us to discipline ourselves and our children."

All discipline does not need to be critical, he said, pointing out that praise for good things is also discipline.

"A properly disciplined child will make your home a happier one, both for you and the child," he said.

Mrs. Newton Davenport spoke on the birthdays and lives of important men born in February. Because of the illness of the president, Mrs. Karlene Muddell, Mrs. Sarah Hafler, a past president, presided at the business meeting. Invocation was given by Mrs. Homer Shupp.

Report was given on the March of Dimes campaign conducted by the Progressive Women in the West End which showed $58.05; Saylorsburg, $253.53; Gilbert, $73; for a total of $54.92.

The Progressive Woman's Club will be host to the Spring County Federation meeting to be held April 6. Mrs. Clement Heist was named chairman of arrangement.

Mrs. Rudolph Mueller was chairman of the hostess committee.

The March meeting will be Past President's Night to be held at the Hamilton School. There will be Easter decorations by Mrs. Robert Miller, and a children's ballet. Mrs. Martin Hansen will be hostess chairman.

Little League Aux.

The East Stroudsburg Little League Aux. will meet Wednesday night at 8 at the Senior High School in Room 16.

Several suggested plans for fund-raising will be discussed and a decision made as to which one will be used.

Fleck Breaks Drought, Wins

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jack Fleck broke a five-year victory drought Monday as he beat Bill Collins by three strokes in a 18-hole playoff for top money in the $22,500 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Fleck, of Los Angeles, toured the 6,585-yard Phoenix Country Club course in a three-under-par 68. Collins, of Crystal River, Fla., could do no better than an even par.

It was Fleck's first victory since he won the 1955 U.S. Open in a dramatic playoff with Ben Hogan.

Collins, another unsung member of the touring golf circuit, has won only one major tournament in his two years as a professional. Fleck's victory meant a fat check of $1,150 plus a share of admission receipts from a gallery of about 2,500. Collins pocketed $2,100 plus his share of the receipts.

Tied At 273

The two tied at 273—11 under par—in the tourney's regulation 72 holes.

Monday's match was a battle of birdies for the first nine holes, then turned to a battle of bogies. The turning point came on the par four 14th hole. The golfers were even at that point.

Collins drove his tee shot into the trees. His recovery shot smashed into a trap. He blasted out over the green. He chipped back, the ball sailing once again over the green and into the same trap. He finally recovered his touch, got out of the trap and sank his putt for a double bogey six. Fleck was down in four.

Insurance Putt

Just for insurance Fleck sank a six-foot birdie putt on No. 15, and a 40-foot birdie putt on No. 16.

Fleck said, "At no point did I think I had the match sewed up. It's wonderful to get back into the winner's circle. It's been a long time."

IOC Adopts Freedom Of Press

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The International Olympic Committee Monday night affirmed its "belief in the freedom of the press" in connection with the refusal of the State Department to admit sports writers from East Germany to the Winter Olympic Games.

Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee, in announcing the IOC had adopted a resolution to this effect said:

"In my opinion all legitimate sports journalists should be permitted to attend the games."

He explained that as far as the refusal of the State Department to permit an extra number of East German Olympic officials was concerned:

"Everything seems to be in order."

The combined German team has 35 athletes from East Germany and 50 from West Germany and is entitled under Olympic rules to 20 officials.

These consist of 12 from West Germany and eight from East Germany.

"I'm informed the State Department admitted a few more from East Germany," Brundage said.

Old Timers Fracas Set For N'Fld

NEWFOUNDLAND — Baseball caps, "long Johns" and tattered L'il Abner shirts will be the order of the evening Saturday night when the annual Old Timers fracas begins in Southern Wayne Joint School Gym.

Officials are sharpening their comic books of rules, and plan to use the Dick Tracy method of determining which team is the foulest.

In Training

In training for weeks, the Old Timers plan to use a 6-2-2-1 defense supplemented by the flying wedge that won them the game last year. Secret weapons and the leap-frog play have been outlawed this year, but the Old Timers have a few new tricks up their tattered shirtsleeves.

The ridiculous will be followed by the near-sublime, a YMCA Senior League tilt between the Blue Angels and Brown Derby at 8:15 p.m.

Cop Duels In Senior Court Loop

GRAY'S Chevrolet bombed Rotary, 140 to 74, and the Brown Derby edged Lawson's, 82-78, in YMCA Senior Basketball League games last night.

Joe Bean and Bob Wert threw in 39 points each to pace Gray's with Ken Lioffier contributing 32 more. Rotary was paced by Scott's 24.

Bernie Marchionis with 23 points, and Troskoski with 21 led Brown Derby to its win. Adelmann, with 21, and I. Isom, with 19, were high for Lawson's.

Seeking Moore, German Fiasco

NEW YORK (AP) — Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, director of boxing for Feature Sports, Inc. said Monday he still wants to promote an Archie Moore-Erich Schoepner light heavyweight title fight despite the German's draw with Mike Holt of South Africa.

Fugazy said last week he had offered Moore $20,000 to defend against Schoepner, the European champion, who was offered $50,000 Feature Sport promoting group that hopes to stage the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson rematch in June.

Schoepner and Holt drew Saturday in a 10-round match at Dortmund, Germany.

2 Hurt Seriously In Ski Workouts

By Alan Cline

Associated Press Sports Writer

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Two downhill skiers, an Italian and a Spaniard, were injured seriously in wild spills Monday, and a 16-year-old Austrian star narrowly missed disaster when she banged into a tree on the olympic downhill run.

Battista Pordon of Italy and Luis Molne from Spain suffered broken legs in a day of increased training that saw the accident rate shoot up and tensions increase. The games open Thursday.

Traudi Hecher, Austria's pig-pride, splintered her skis when she smashed into a tree near the bottom of the 1½-mile women's downhill run. She was brought down the rest of the way by to-baggan, shaken but not hurt by the accident.

U.S. Team Named

Meanwhile, a strong U.S. women's downhill team was named with Penny Pitou, 21, Gilford, N.H.; Betsy Snite, Norwich, Vt.; Linda Meyers, 22, Bishop, Calif., and Joan Hannah, 20, Franconia, N.H., giving America what many believe to be its finest squad ever.

The runs on the men's downhill course completed training for that spectacular event. The athletes had another beautiful day for the workout.

In a move prompted by the two accidents on the men's course, which occurred almost at the same time, Willy Schaeffler, director of ski events, issued an order for doctors to be stationed at four dangerous points along the run.

Pordon, 20, a candidate for the Italian downhill squad, had finished his runs for speed when he slipped and tumbled into a rocky creek.

Possible Concussion

Doctors said he also may have suffered concussion.

Molne, 33-year-old veteran of the Spanish team, cracked up on a treacherous pocket on the men's Squaw Peak course known as the "waterfall."

As he was being taken off the mountain, he waved to reporters and said, "the right leg is broken."

The nearness of the games increased tension throughout the valley.

Brunette Margaret Gobl and Franz Wilhelm Niggl, German figure skaters, had a spat during practice and it broke up in an angry slapping and crying scene.

"Sometimes figure skating is like marriage, there are always little arguments," said the couple's trainer, Mrs. Rosemarie Bruening of Munich.

NBA Drops Archie As Champion

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—The National Boxing Association Monday night withdrew recognition of Archie Moore as light heavyweight champion because he failed to defend his title within the prescribed six months period.

Anthony Macaroni, NBA president, announcing the withdrawal said "Moore should make up his mind whether to continue as a light heavyweight or give up his crown and campaign for the heavyweight title. It isn't fair to Johnson and other contenders."

He said the NBA executive committee at its Dec. 12 meeting in Indianapolis, Ind., unanimously passed a resolution that Moore defend against the perennial No. 1 Harold Johnson not later than

Audiovox Hearing Aids Are Now Available In Monroe County

Subscribe to The Daily Record.

Distributor Stresses How Ear Functions

MARGUERITE J. GREINERT, certified hearing aid audiologist and authorized distributor for Audiovox Hearing Aids in the area, says that to understand the different types of deafness, we must first learn how the ear functions, and how it carries sound to the brain. In other words Mrs. Greinert wants to stress "How you hear."

The human ear is made up of an eardrum and a series of canals and chambers. The ear collects sound waves and carries them to an extremely delicate mechanism which carries the sounds to the brain where they are translated into symbols of thought. The human brain can analyze the nerve impulses of nearly a half million different sounds! When you examine how the ear works, and realize how complex an organ it is, you can readily understand how easily its functions can become impaired.

Although the ear is capable of adapting itself to great extremes, such as the sound of a clock five feet away or the shock of the loudest crack of thunder without damage, it is such a delicate instrument that nature has placed it well within the protective shell of the skull. The portion of the ear which is visible to us is only a part of the complete ear.

The part of the ear we see is called the auricle. It gathers sound vibrations like a funnel and directs them through the auditory canal to the eardrum. The auditory canal is actually an air conditioner to protect the middle and inner ear against temperature changes. A screen of hairs at the canal entrance filters out the dust.

Mrs. Greinert explains that the eardrum stretches across the inner end of the auditory canal. This membrane is so sensitive to sound that it can detect them below the lowest note on the bass drum or notes more than twice as high as the highest note on a violin.

On the inner side of the eardrum is a small spherical air chamber called the Middle Ear. Across this chamber extends a tiny bridge of three bones, the Hammer, the Anvil and the Stirrup, which are linked together end-to-end. These bones pick up sound vibrations as they strike the eardrum, and transmit them from the outer to the inner ear.

Mrs. Greinert goes on to say that if anything happens to prevent this tiny chain of bones from vibrating freely, sound impulses are stopped here, cannot reach the inner ear, and hearing is impaired.

The inner ear is a chamber filled with liquid, and containing a spiral called the "cochlea." The cochlea is lined with thousands of microscopic, hair-like projections, from which nerve impulses are transmitted to the brain. The liquid in the inner ear acts like a hydraulic system, and carries the sound vibrations from the middle ear to these tiny hair cells.

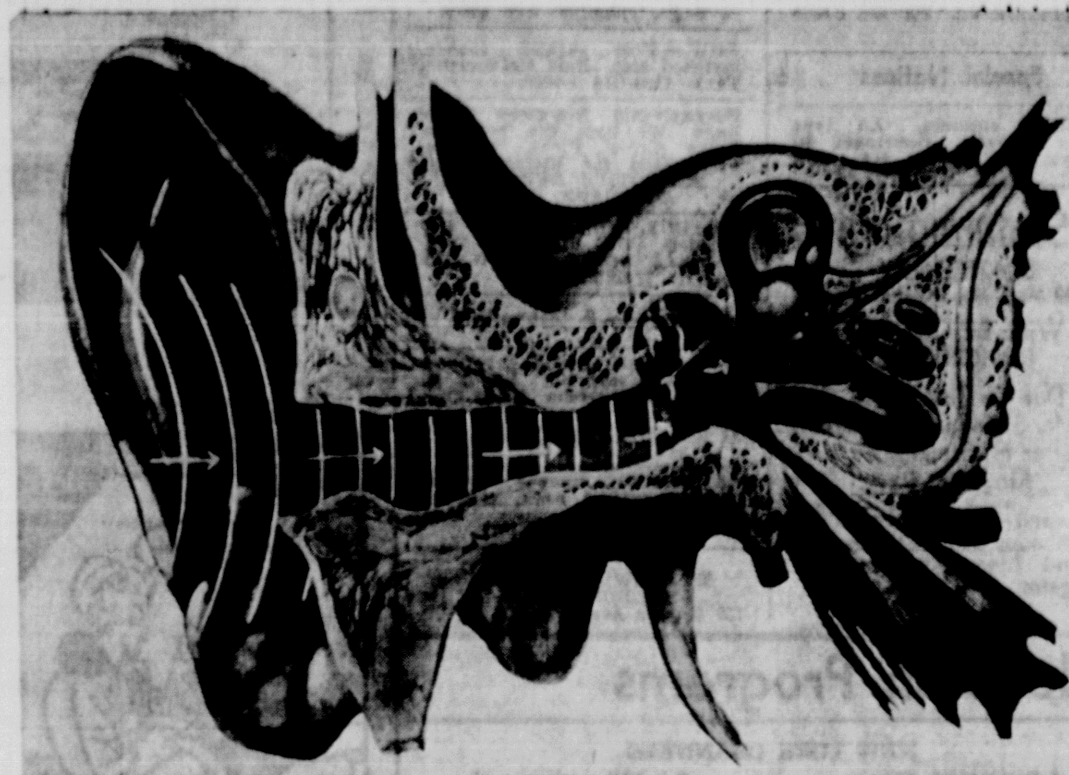

The cochlea, if uncoiled from its two-and-one-half turns, would be no longer than an ordinary sewing needle, however on its surface there are over 25,000 hair cells. The cells at one end respond to notes far below the piano keyboard and the cells at the base of the spiral respond to the very highest notes.

When all these tiny nerve cells are young and active, they respond to approximately 1500 individual tones, the perfect ear can detect almost a half million different sound impressions.

It is any wonder that such a marvelous and sensitive organ is subject to the effects of age, damage or disease?

In the event that a child seems to have a hearing impairment, Mrs. Greinert advises the parents to consult a physician immediately, as he is the only one qualified to determine the extent of the impairment, if any.

Today if a doctor has the opportunity to detect a hearing

VERSATILITY is becoming a giant word in the furniture world.

"One the move" America demands items equally at home in the first small utility apartment or in that dream house in the country.

Sears Notes Spring In New Catalog Issue

MILLIONS OF AMERICANS are about to receive their first taste of Spring — the 1960 Spring and Summer general catalog of Sears, Roebuck and Co. is being distributed to more than nine million families in all 50 states and possessions of the United States.

Cora Bishong, manager of the Sears catalog sales in Wyckoff-Sears, Stroudsburg said the 1960 book is the largest Spring and Summer catalog in Sears 72-year history. It weighs more than five pounds and lists more than 135,000 merchandise items in its 1554 pages, he said. Color is more prominent than ever, with a record number of pages in four colors.

Miss Bishong said the new catalog contains nearly 300 pages of women's apparel, including fashions designed in Paris exclusively for Sears. The fashion section features checks, gingham and bright colors for Spring and Summer. These vibrant colors take their cues (and hues) from the plumage of birds — canary yellow, parakeet blue and flamingo pink. The big fashion news is at the top of the silhouettes, Sears fashion board reports, with more sleeve, more width, more adornment.

The new book also features the largest selection of outdoor furniture and accessories ever offered in a Spring general catalog, Miss Bishong said.

Among new merchandise items making their first appearance in Sears 1960 catalog are:

- 1—Coldspot frostless freezers which, like modern refrigerators, never need defrosting.
- 2—Majestic Melmac dinnerware designed exclusively for Sears by Count Bernadotte of Sweden.
- 3—"Magna-Door" garment bags with magnetic "doors" (no zipper, no stitches to fray or pull).
- 4—"Whispering Power Mowers" (with completely enclosed engine, two mufflers and two fans to smother noise to a purr).
- 5—Americana collection of fabrics — newly designed Early American patterns for curtains, draperies, bedspreads, slipcovers and pillow covers. The Americana collection includes "Bunker Hill," an authentic reproduction of a military drum; "Providence," based on a colonial rose quilt motif; "Cumberland" and "Allegheny," based on the folk-art of early Pennsylvania; and "Country Auction," depicting the perennial search for antiques.
- 6—A new lightweight, compact seven-and-a-half horsepower outboard motor with new features designed and planned for the fisherman, the forgotten man of the outboard motor industry. It is designed to go into weed beds, pads and shallow waters; features quiet motor operation with new sound-deadening durable plastic rubber shock mounts, and full forward-neutral-reverse gear shift.
- 7—New Latex-base house paint which is easy to apply, dries fast (before dirt, dust and bugs can mar the job), and is most resistant to peeling and blistering because the paint "breathes," frees moisture trapped in the wood. Final coat can be applied only one hour after the first coat, even on damp surfaces or in humid weather, and tools and hands clean easily in soap and water.

Physical Re-Exam Failures Expected To Be Light

HARRISBURG (AP)—O. D. Shiley, director of highway safety, said Monday the purpose of Gov. David L. Lawrence's proposed physical re-examination program is not to take large numbers of drivers off the road.

"It isn't our desire or intent to affect a wholesale removal of licenses," Shiley said. "We anticipate the percentage will be very, very small."

The physical examination plan was outlined by Lawrence Feb. 2 as part of his new highway safety program. The program also includes new traffic violation penalties which take effect March 1.

The first phase of the physical examination program will go into effect in June. Any new driver applying for a license will have to pass the 10-point physical program.

In 1961, some 200,000 drivers licensed before 1924 will come under the regulation and by 1962 the state hopes to have all drivers under the physical examination program.

Each 10 years

The program calls for re-examinations each 10 years up to the age of 60 and each five years thereafter.

Shiley said the program's intent was to stop those persons who should not be driving.

"We're going to take off persons who may be subject to black-outs, persons who are mentally incompetent, persons who don't have vision enough to see to drive a car," he added.

Dr. Charles L. Wilbar, state health secretary, said these physical defects will mean disqualification.

Loss of use of both hands; nervous disorders affecting muscular control and coordination; 20/70 vision or poorer in either eye with glasses; acute shortness of breath; usually indicating heart disease; mental diseases; conditions causing repeated loss of consciousness, such as epilepsy; uncontrolled diabetes; chronic alcoholism; narcotics addiction, and hypertension.

More Ironing
Both Shiley and Wilbar admitted many details and administrative procedures for the program have not yet been worked out. Officials also said there were legal decisions to be made about such things as the possibility of forged medical certificates.

The health secretary said the first four points of the 10-point medical program could be easily determined by state police. He said physicians would examine motorists for the other six.

Before the re-examination program goes into effect, Wilbar said, the Health Department plans to send each physician in the state.

Named To $9,923 Milk Unit Post

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Agriculture Department Monday named John A. Smith, Dickinson, Cumberland County, to a $9,923 a year post as milk utilization advisor.

Smith was forced out of his post as a member of the three-man Milk Control Commission Jan. 5 when the 1959 Legislature adjourned without confirming his reappointment.

His salary as a milk commissioner was $10,000 a year. Gov. David L. Lawrence submitted his name to the 1960 Legislature for confirmation to the milk commission post, but it has been blocked by the Republican-controlled Senate Executive Nominations Committee.

Force Out Of Action
The new appointment was seen as a move by the administration to force Smith's name out of the Senate committee for floor action. The milk commission, currently operating with only Chairman Joseph K. Mahood and Commissioner Simon K. Uhl, has been deadlocked on milk pricing orders.
